

Prevention Ordering Information

September 2003

The following information is intended to aid in the ordering of clinical supplies for prevention products in Army Dental Clinics. As a disclaimer, these lists may not be exhaustive, and we will update as we become aware of other products. I have listed the government price for all of these products and some can be ordered through Henry Schein as well.

Prevention continues to be a primary mission of the Army Dental Care System. High numbers of dental Disease Non Battle Injuries have been documented over the years.

Fluoride Varnish – This is a great product for delivering in-office professional fluoride to high risk patients. The varnish contains 5% sodium fluoride with approximately 22,000 ppm of fluoride. The varnish adheres to the tooth and thus more fluoride is available during the 24-48 hours post application. Research shows this to be safe for children and adults.

 Fluor Protector is also available from Ivoclar, but reports suggest that the silane used in the formulation couples with the fluoride making it not available for release

5000 ppm Fluoride Toothpaste – These toothpastes should be prescribed to high risk patients who need the additional fluoride. Ideal candidates for using this toothpaste are orthodontic patients and those with active caries. These toothpastes should not be prescribed for children younger than 12. All 5000 ppm fluoride toothpastes contain 1.1% sodium fluoride.
